CONCLUSION

As it can be gauged from this Note, the Regional Bodies of the APBC and some of its Regional Commissions like Education and Youth are well established with their offices, personnel and programmes. However, a few Commissions are rather new and began to function systematically from 2008 after they were given office space in the APBC Center. There is a need to monitor and coordinate the functioning and activities of Regional Bodies and Commissions. The Andhra Pradesh Bishops' Council (APBC) has entrusted this task to the Secretary and Deputy Secretary of APBC. "The Directives and Guidelines for the Regional Bodies / Commissions" has been formulated and approved by the APBC for their effective functioning and coordination. Another task to be completed is strengthening the Regional Commissions by establishing their diocesan unit in the form of a Diocesan Commission with a Diocesan Secretary and a resource team of trainers. The teams of resource persons and trainers, the animators and coordinators, and the volunteers and leaders of the Community Based Organizations (CBOs) of the Regional Commissions need to be equipped with relevant knowledge in their sphere of activity and with capacity building skills. To undertake these functions, the APBC needs a regional animation and training center. Undoubtedly, much remains to be done to empower the Marginalized to gain fullness of life and liberty, human rights and equality, and peace with justice.
